

Your Superpower

What's the only ID card that can hire or fire the President?

The Permanent Voter's Card (PVC)

Without it, you are just making noise online.
It's your actual voice.

POWER MOVE

Find out exactly how old you need to be to register for a PVC.

The Ref

Who blows the whistle in the election match?

INEC

They organize the game,
count the votes, and announce the winner. If the ref is compromised, the match is ruined.

POWER MOVE

Ask a friend what INEC stands for.

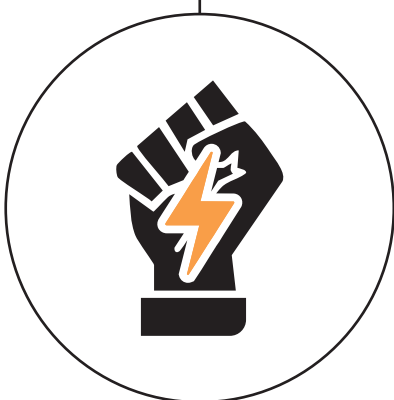

Awoof That Runs Belly

Is a pack of noodles worth 4 years of bad roads?

Vote Buying

Selling your vote for quick cash or food is like scamming your own future.

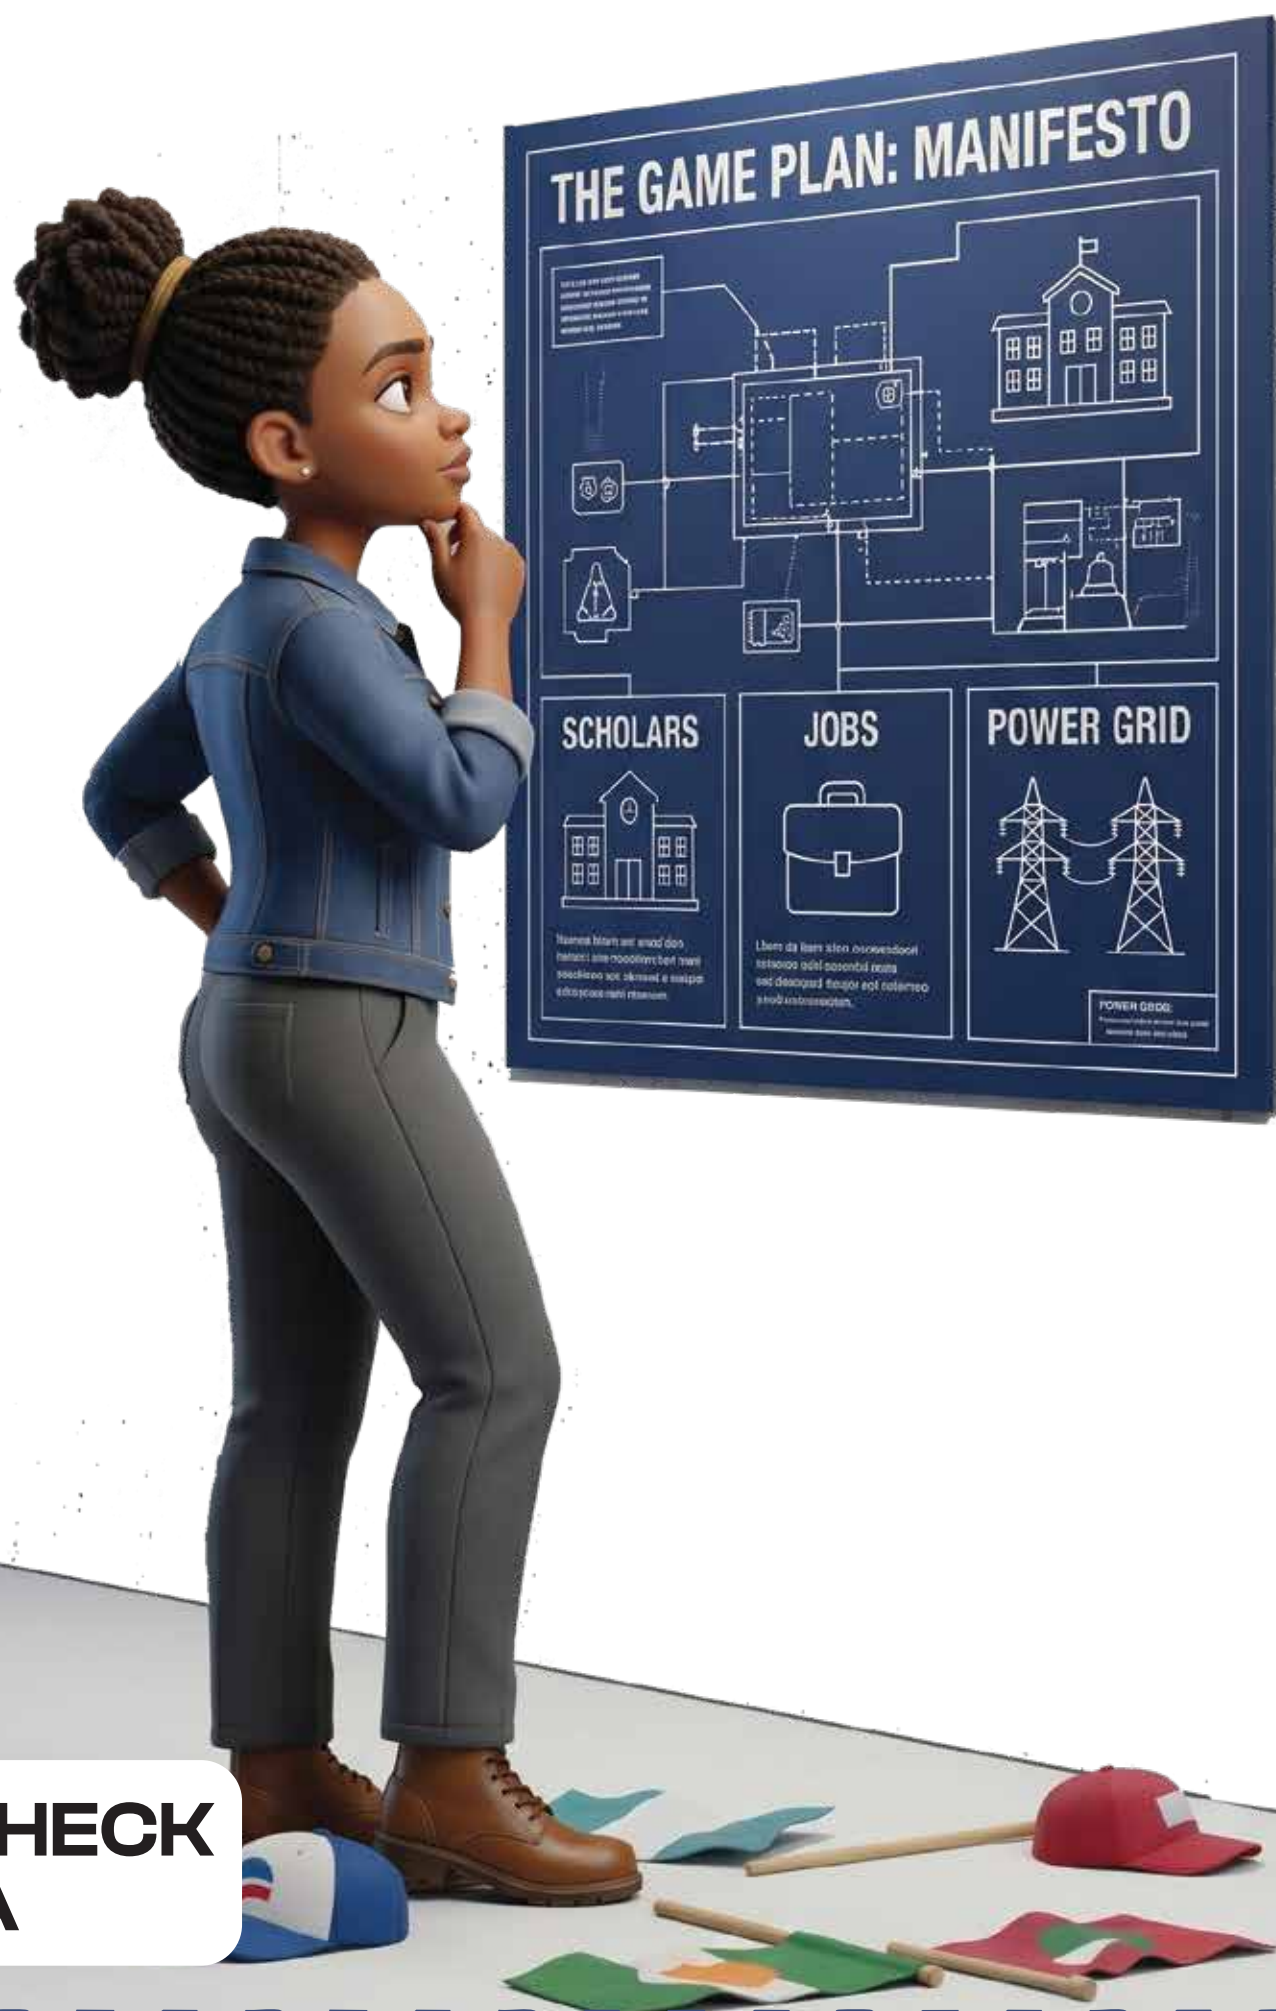

POWER MOVE

Call out vote-selling the next time you see it in a school election.

The Game Plan

How do you know a politician isn't just capping?

Manifestos

Don't just look at the catchy songs or party logo; check what they actually promise to do for schools and jobs.

POWER MOVE

Search online for what the current governor promised before winning.

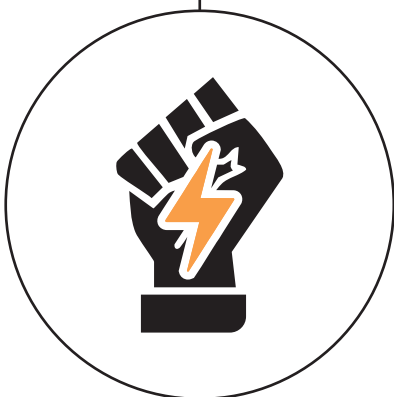

Ghost Mode

What happens when the good guys ghost
on election day?

Not Voting

If you stay home because
"they will rig it anyway,"
you are giving bad
leaders a free pass to win.

POWER MOVE

Convince one older adult in your house that their vote actually matters.

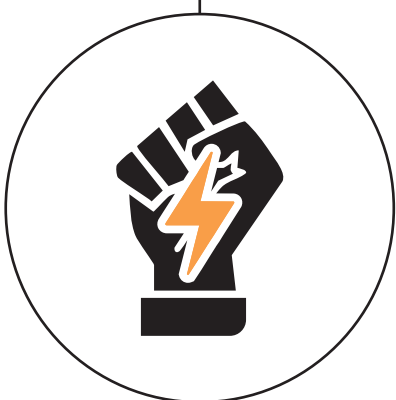

The VAR

Who watches the match to make sure nobody is cheating?

Election Observers

Regular citizens and NGOs who stay at the polling units to make sure the voting is fair and square.

POWER MOVE

Look up the name of one NGO that monitors Nigerian elections.

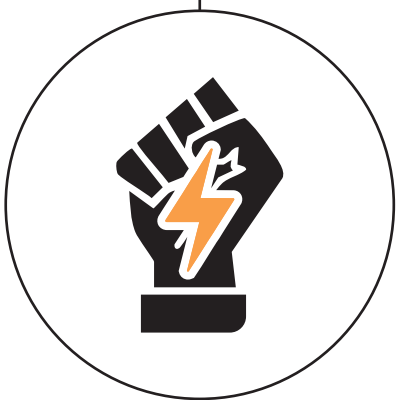

The National Cake

Who decides how the country's money
is shared?

The Government Budget

It's the official plan for how much money the country will make and how it will be spent on things you need, like schools and hospitals.

POWER MOVE

Ask your parents if they know what the country's budget is this year.

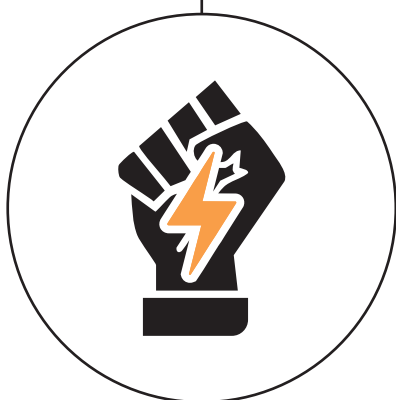

Your Area's Share

Did you know the government has money
specially meant for your street?

Constituency Projects

Lawmakers identify the specific needs of their constituencies like boreholes, transformers, or clinics in your exact area and suggest these projects for implementation by federal agencies, rather than receiving the funds directly.

POWER MOVE

Spot one abandoned government project in your neighborhood.

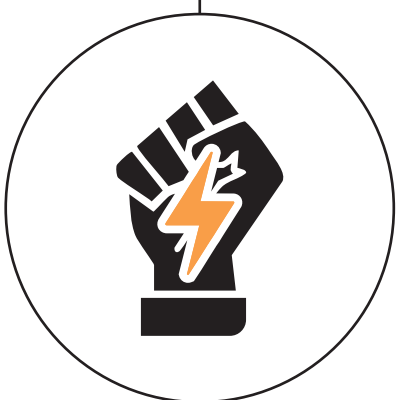

The Missing Zeros

Where does the money
for our new school desks disappear to?

Corruption & Padding

When leaders steal funds or pretend a 100 Naira biro costs 1,000 Naira, it means less money for things you actually need.

POWER MOVE

Discuss with a friend how stolen public money affects students.

Show The Receipts

How do we know the government didn't buy a fake item for a real price?

Open Contracts

The law says the government must show the public exactly who they paid to build a road and how much they spent.

POWER MOVE

Look up the phrase "ghost workers" and see what it means.

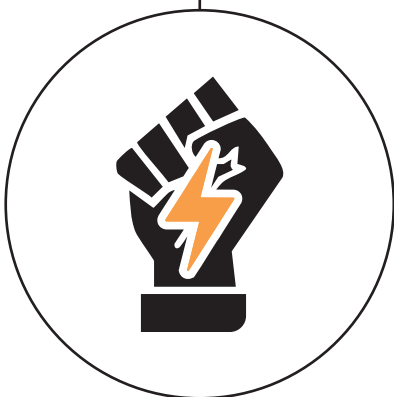

The Subscription Fee

You don't pay taxes
yet... or do you?

VAT (Value Added Tax)

Every time you buy airtime or a soft drink, you pay tax to the government. Since you are paying, you have the right to ask questions!

POWER MOVE

Check a supermarket receipt to find the VAT charge.

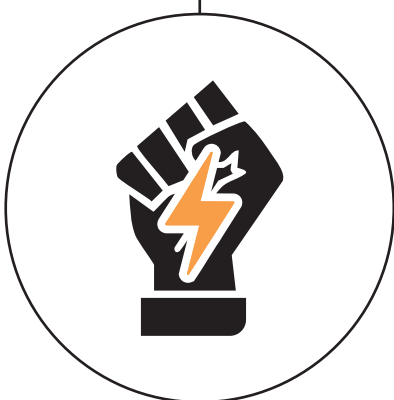

Checking the Math

Who checks if the government is spending our money wisely?

The Auditor-General

Their job is to review
the government's bank statements and catch financial mistakes or missing funds.

POWER MOVE

Look up what an "audit" means in everyday English.

Making Noise That Makes Sense

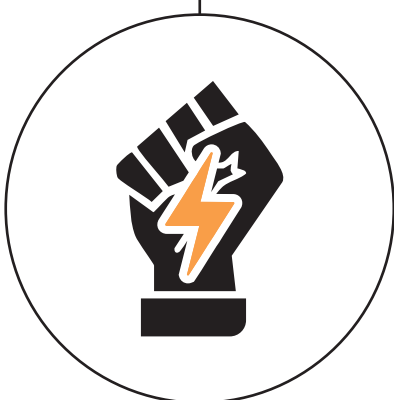

Not Too Young

How do you get leaders to listen without fighting?

Advocacy

Using social media, art, or community meetings to highlight a problem until the government fixes it.

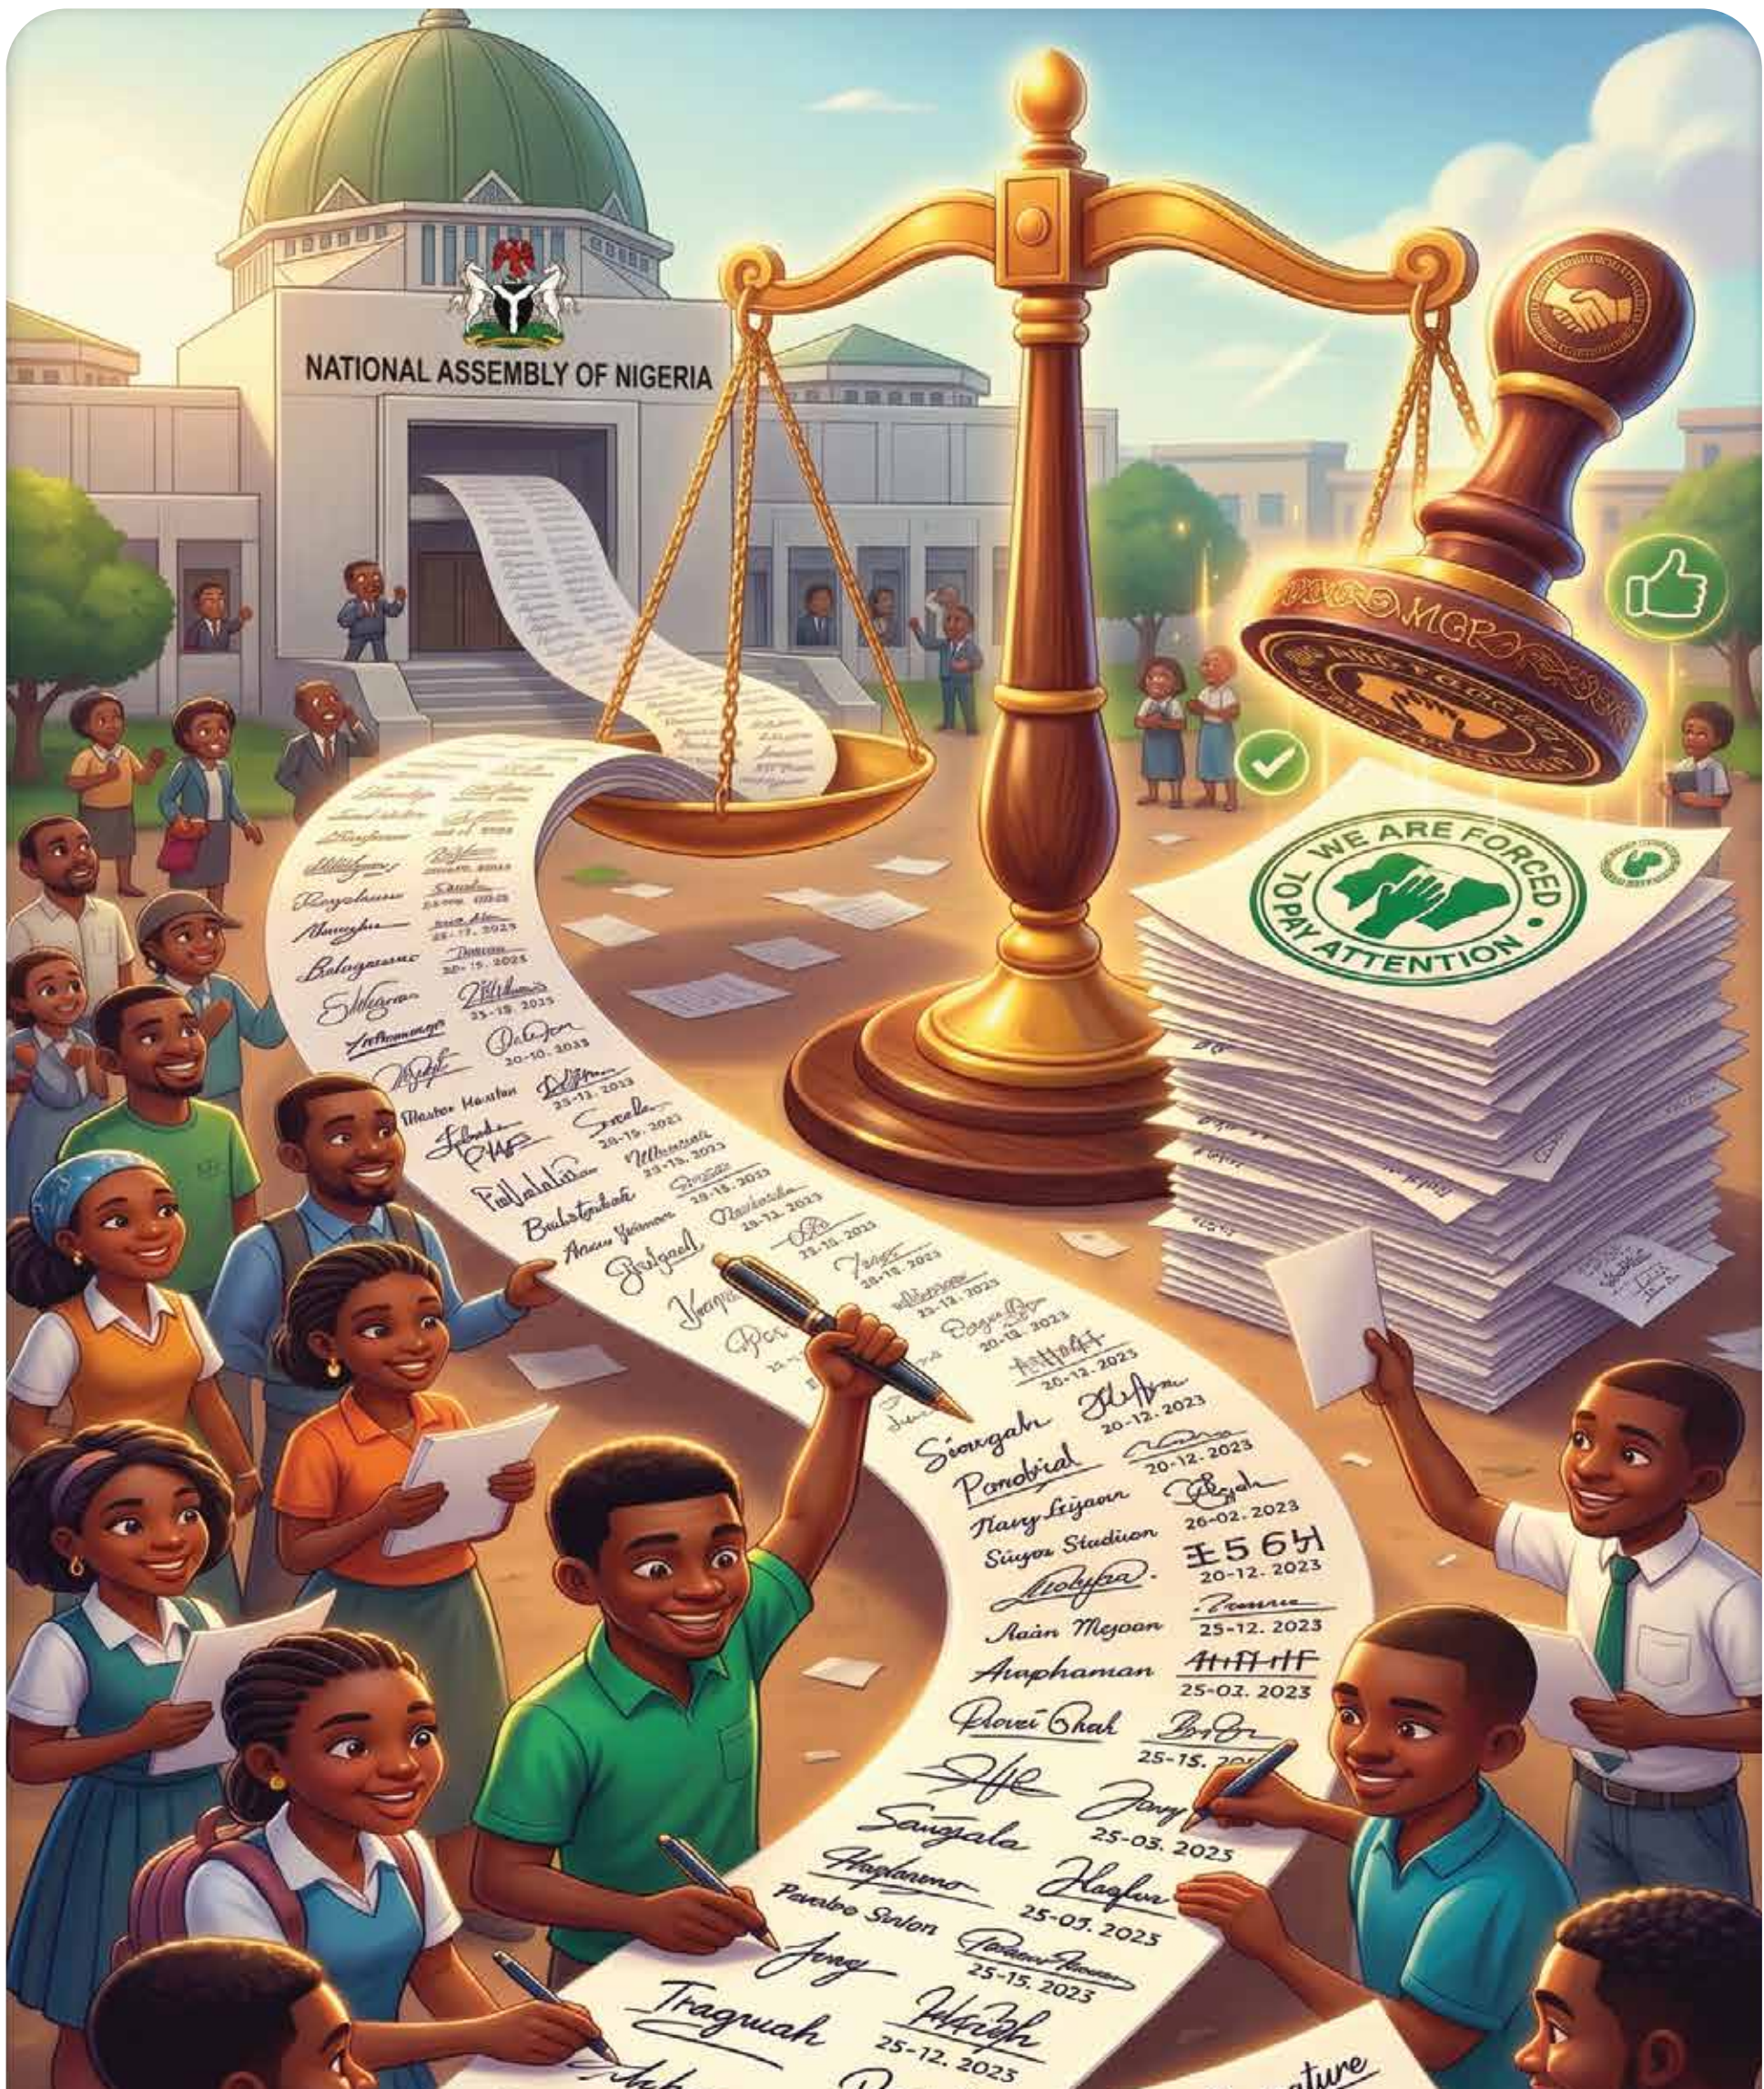

POWER MOVE

Write a tweet or post tagging a local leader about a community issue.

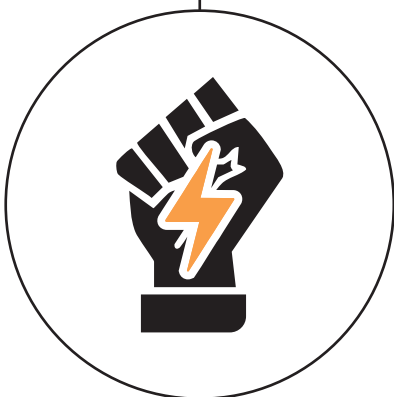

The Signature Power

Can a piece of paper force the government to act?

Petitions

When thousands of people sign a letter demanding change, lawmakers are forced to pay attention and discuss it.

POWER MOVE

Find an active digital petition online and read what they are asking for.
